WASHINGTON, November 5—"The solemn referendum" of the League of Nations having gone against President Wilson his friends as well as critics are asking "what will President Wilson do now about the peace treaty?"

The answer is known only to the President. If he intends to do anything he is not confiding in his official family. Many guesses have been made. Among them are these:

First, that Wilson will do nothing more about the treaty of the League, leaving to Harding the task of making peace with Germany and the task of on what terms the United States will cooperate with the other nations.

Second, that he will accept the people's verdict rendered a Tuesday's solemn referendum and resubmit the League covenant to the Senate in December with a statement for ratification with such reservations as the senate adopts.

Third, that he will resign very shortly as suggested by William J. Bryan.

Fourth, that he will make separate peace with Germany by March 4, 1921.

Fifth, that he will shortly address a statement to the American people in which he will submit his last words officially on the treaty.

All these are mere guesses unsupported by a single authoritative intimation from the President or persons close to him. Those who have observed him during his two terms said they "expected the unexpected" from him and would not be surprised that the President had a surprise up his sleeve with regard to the pact. White House officials refused to discuss in any way the urgent suggestion that the President resign letting Harding assume the office at once.

MOST VOTED G. O. P. TICKET

The presidential election in Clearfield county on Tuesday last brought out a total of 18,503 voters to the polls. The registration books showed that 20,000 men and 6505 women had registered for voting purposes, which denotes that but two out of three voters lined up at the polls.

The women were out in goodly numbers all over the county, despite the bad weather and the problem as to what they would do by lining up almost solidly with their husbands and voting the straight Republican ticket.

Due to the extending of suffrage to the women it was necessary to add to the total number of voting precincts of the county bringing the number up to 107. The new districts were located as follows: One each in the Second and Third wards of Clearfield; two in Bigler and Girard townships; one in Cooper, Lawrence and Sandy townships, and one in Oscola borough.

The election cost the taxpayers of the county approximately $9750. Of this amount $5250 was paid out of the election boards as salary, while the remaining $4500 went to pay rent for election houses and other incidental expenses, such as ballots, ink and supplies.

The women were very greatly interested in their first vote and generally took to politics like ducks to water so to speak. Right here in Clearfield women watchers and poll workers were on hand at each polling place and put in full time at the work. There was no confusion, delay or excitement and Mrs. Voter fit right into the scheme of things alongside of "the old man" as though accustomed to voting all her life.

There were women members of election boards in several districts and everywhere they proved adept at enrolling voters and making up their tally sheets and other election papers.

Kylertown Precinct of Cooper township, not only had a majority of women on the election board, but a woman Constable patrolled the election house and most successfully maintained peace and good order during the day. This woman Constable the first female to act in that capacity in Clearfield county was Mrs. Lottie Maines. The women members of the election board were: Mrs. Nora Worthamer, inspector and Misses Ella Eisenhauer and Frances Sanceroff, clerks.

The work of tabulating the vote cast in Clearfield county will be done by Judge Bell, Prothonotary Ralston, Court Crier Curley and two women assistants in the persons of Misses Rebecca Smith and Nan Fulford.

Reverend Whitefeather, Indian preacher and veteran of the World war, has appealed to the American Legion Weekly for the protection of the land that belongs to his tribe, following a proposal to open up the reservation near Stillwater, Nev., for settlement.

"Make a law that no white man or Mexican can take our land or marry in this tribe," he wrote. "Put all poor Indians in good shape, and I know that the government will be well paid in the long run. We have no lazy Indians here at all. The white man would like to see our poor Indians give up our land and work for them. A man, no matter who he is, if he works out for others is the loser."

MT. UNION MEETS
C. H. S. TOMORROW

By DICK LEIPOLD.

The Red and Black football squad has been driven hard this week, in preparation for the big game Saturday, with Mt. Union High; coaches Staff and Heisey putting their proteges thru every pace in the repertoire of the grid game.

C. H. S. is in good shape this week, the players all being full of fight, and eager to jump into the game with the mainliners as Altoona High, for reasons unknown, cancelled the C. H. S. game booked for last Saturday, thus giving the Clearfield players a week off, and a chance to recuperate from injuries. The varsity lineup remains unchanged, except that W. Johnson will call the signals, and although a present some of the regulars are on of the game temporarily due to low scholastic standing, it is hoped that they will fix their difficulty up with the faculty before Saturdays contest.

A large crowd should be at the Clearfield-Mt. Union game, as the Huntingdon county lads gave the best exhibition of football seen on the School athletic field last season, holding our eleven to one touchdown, displaying a clean brand of football that stamped them as real sports.

Coach Smith of Mt. Union expects to put one over on C. H. S. this year as their eleven has been going at a great clip, bowling over every high school aggregation that looked horn with them. They have dropped but one game out of six, and, that to the strong Juniata College Varsity, 47 to 12, scoring twice on the heavy col legians. Their record so far this season:

Mt. Union H. S. 41. Mifflin H. S. 6
Mt. Union H. S. 33. Mifflintown H. S. 0.
Mt. Union H. S. 34. Yeagertown H. S. 0.
Mt. Union H. S. 12. Juniata College Varsity 47.
Mt. Union H. S. 13. Roaring Springs 6.
Mt. Union H. S. 27. Lewistown H. S. 9.

The Mt. Union line will out weight Clearfield, but their backfield average, only 140 pounds, depending on trick plays and passes to gain ground, and that they are fast was proven when their light backfield men scored on the heavy Juniata team. But Clearfield team has developed into form, and should give the lads from the town of refractories plenty of amusement when they clash, assuming the fans a snappy game. So make it a point to be on hand and help cheer the Red and Black clad warriors on to victory.

Mrs. Betty Reed Eyster entertained a number of her friends at a dinner last evening.

"Brainy" Lizard Discovered.

Colorado has made an interesting "find." A mass of skeletonized bones was unearthed some time ago from a deep pit, and since then archaeologists and experts in natural history have been occupied in piecing the bones together. The result is a singular formation. It is 14 feet high at the shoulder with a graceful neck stretching 26 feet into the air and a total length from the front of the head to the tip of the tail of more than 50 feet. The lizard had a brain an inch in diameter.

PREDICTIONS ON THE CABINET

Washington, November 5—Hundreds of problems of major importance will confront the cabinet to be appointed by President-elect Harding. The number of problems are legion.

Although President-elect Harding so far has not indicated who will form the cabinet political observers have lined up the following:

For Secretary of State, Elihu Root, of New York.
Secretary of the Treasury, Gov. Frank O. Lowden of Illinois.
Justice, Ex-Senator George Sutherland of Utah.
The Navy, Ex-Senator John W. Weeks of Massachusetts.
Agriculture, Henry C. Wallace, a Des Moines editor.
Post Office, Henry M. Daugherty of Ohio or Will H. Hays.
Labor, John Nolan, of California.
Army, Herbert Hoover.
General Pershing and General Leonard Wood were also regarded as possibilities.

A technical and practical state of peace will have to be brought about by the new administration, in addition to arranging terms of peace with Germany and Austria.

Root will have the job of forming a Mexican as well as Russian policy and drafting Harding's plan for an "association of nations."

The Secretary of the Treasury will be confronted with the task of clearing off America's war debt.

The story that Wilson planned to step out soon after the election has been going around for some time and has even gone unmentioned in some official quarters and it is impossible to state whether Wilson does or does not intend to quit. His close associates scout the idea, however.

PENNSYLVANIA OPERATORS LINE UP ON FEDERAL "FAIR PRICE" PLAN

A meeting of the operators of Central Pennsylvania was held in Altoona on Thursday, Nov. 4th, at 11 A. M. for the purpose of acting on the resolutions adopted by the operators of the United States at Cleveland, Ohio, last week in which the co-operation of the operators was pledged to the Attorney General in the elimination of unfair practices and unreasonably high prices for coal.

A large number of operators were present and the following resolution were adopted:

WHEREAS, An abnormal condition for some time past has existed in the bituminous coal industry of this country due to inadequate transportation facilities, labor difficulties and shortage, and other causes beyond the control of the bituminous coal operators and

WHEREAS, The Attorney General has requested the bituminous coal operators of the country to co-operate with the Department of Justice in bringing about the elimination of unreasonably high prices for coal, where such exist; and

WHEREAS, At a meeting held in Altoona, Ohio, on October 28, 1920 the bituminous coal operators of the country did take action to eliminate unreasonably high prices and unfair practices, where such exist; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the bituminous coal operators of Central Pennsylvania refuse to ask or receive unreasonably high prices for bituminous coal, and further that all unfair practices in the industry, where any such exist be condemned and eliminated, and be it further

RESOLVED, That in accordance with the action taken by the bituminous coal operators at the Cleveland meeting, that the bituminous coal operators of Central Pennsylvania instruct the chairman of this meeting to immediately appoint a committee of ten, of which he shall be one, and of which the Secretary of this meeting shall be Secretary, said committee to be known as the Fair Practice Committee to function in this district in connection with the Department of Justice to the end set forth in this resolution; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Committee prepare basic resolutions and a set of rules to govern the action of the Committee, and a plan for raising necessary funds to carry on the work of stabilizing the coal mining industry.

The following Committee was appointed for Central Pennsylvania:

James H. Allport, Barnesboro, Pa., chairman.

Charles O'Neill, Altoona, Pa., Secretary.

H. J. Meehan, Johnstown, Pa.

G. Webb Shillingford, Clearfield, Pa.

Rombrandt Peale, St. Benedict, Pa.

J. William Wetter, Philadelphia, Pa.

Harry Boulton, Clearfield, Pa.

C. B. Maxwell, Morrisdale, Pa.

E. Eckelberger, Saxman, Pa.

At the conclusion of the meeting the following telegram was sent to A. Mitchell Palmer, Attorney General of the United States:

"At a meeting of bituminous coal operators of Central Pennsylvania held in Altoona, Pa., today, the correspondence between the Attorney General and the bituminous coal operators of the country at their meeting in Cleveland, Ohio, October 28th, was acted upon. Resolutions were adopted, which will be forwarded to you today, to be put into effect the spirit and intent of the action and resolutions adopted at Cleveland by the bituminous coal operators of Central Pennsylvania."

Outlaw
By ALDEN CHAPMAN

It was the last month of the year, the last day of the month, the last hour of the day. Despite the holiday season, for nearly a fortnight the moonlight-bathed Arizona town had found time to participate in the excitement of a jury trial of one of the notorious characters of the district, who with her family of outlaws had been the terror of residents and travelers for three decades.

She was old Mother Shipley, and the charge against her was killing Marion Bland, a man of little moral standing, but a citizen. Bland had been found dead with a rifle bullet in his head not far away from the isolated Shipley cabin. He had two years before induced the only Shipley girl of the family, Mollie, to elope with him, had pulled off a mock marriage on her, had badly deserted her, and she had committed suicide in a distant city. It was proven that Mrs. Shipley had often threatened to shoot Bland on sight. When she was brought to El Paso for trial her son Dave, himself many a time under the ban of the law, accompanied her. Public opinion was against the old woman, but the sublime devotion of her son, wicked as she was, influenced Rausome Dacre, a young lawyer, to undertake her defense. Before that his had been the province of prosecuting the outlaws, and they owed him a debt of intense hatred and revenge.

At midnight of the old year the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The excited delight of the faithful son was rapturous. He fairly embraced the young attorney, who, by proving that there was no other weapon than a revolver at the cabin at the time of the killing, freed the old

Silence That Terrible.
Some years ago Mr. Galton, the famous anthropologist, invented and constructed a whistle which, by means of an adjustable plug, could be rendered so shrill that presently it ceased to be heard by human ears. But—here is the curious part of it—after the sound of the whistle had ceased to be audible to any human ear, a dog was still able to hear it, and came readily when it was blown.

CORN IS EASILY PUT INTO SILOS

Almost Any Green Crop Can Successfully Be Made Into Palatable Silage.

MOST NUTRIENTS PRESERVED

Can Be Put Into Silo at an Expense Not Above That of Shocking, Husking, Grinding and Shredding—Less Waste in Feeding.

Almost any green crop can be made into silage successfully. Much care, however, must be taken to expel the air from such hollow-stemmed plants as the small cereal grains by cutting fine and packing firmly. Other crops, of which legumes are examples, are deficient in the fermentable constituents needed for palatable silage. On the other hand, a few crops, such as the saccharine sorghums, have so much sugar that unless cut at a more mature stage they have a tendency to produce sour silage.

Food Material From Corn.
In most parts of the United States more food material can be obtained from an acre of corn as silage than from an acre of any other crop that can be grown. Corn is more easily harvested and put into the silo than crops like rye, clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa, and when cut for silage the maximum quantity of nutrients is preserved. Experiments have shown that corn, when silaged, lost 15.8 per cent of the dry matter, against 23.8 per cent when cut for fodder and cured in the field. Moreover, there is less waste in feeding silage than in feeding fodder, since good silage properly fed is all consumed.

Land Ready.
When corn is cut for silage the land is cleared and left ready for another crop sooner than when the corn is shocked or is husked from the stand.

Cutting and Blowing Corn Into Silos.
ing stalk. Corn can be put into the silo at a cost not above that of shocking, husking, grinding and shredding. Farmers' Bulletin 578 on "The Making and Feeding of Silage."

LESSONS IN OPTOMETRY

HARRY H. ROSENTHAL, O. D.
Woolridge Building, Clearfield, Pa.
LESSON FIFTEEN

What is now the status of an Optician?
He prepares the lenses prescribed by the Optometrist and fits them to the features of the patient.
Most Optometrists are also Opticians, are they not?
Yes, the Optometrist is able to determine what lenses are required, and to prepare and adjust them so that they will be attractive and comfortable.

Do the public appreciate the importance of Optometry?
Scarcely as they should.
What percentage of the public require the services of the Optometrist?
About 70 per cent, authorities agree.
What percentage wear glasses?
Approximately 20 per cent.
Then Optometry would be a benefit to close to half the people.
Yes, about half would be benefited by the services of an Optometrist.

Mr. and Mrs. George Gaylor and son left this morning for Rossiter where they will spend several days with Mrs. Gaylor's parents Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Elliot.

putting that varmint Bland out of the way? All right, fair border justice, but you'll let this man with me go." "I won't!" growled Lucas. "We've a score to settle with him, too." "He'll go free, or it's a duel to the death," answered Dave, made a sudden spring, wrenched one of the weapons from the grasp of Lucas, dodged behind a tree, and kept the revolver pointed directly at the outlaw. "Give Mr. Dacre free passage and I'll go quietly with you. Here—take a gambler's charm. The dice—one throw. If I score the highest, he goes. If not, we both go with you." "Done!" assented Lucas, and each put up his weapon. "Two aces!" announced Dacre, tossing the dice on the ground, and passed them to Lucas. The latter threw a two and a four. "Get on your horse and hit the trail quick, Mr. Dacre," ordered Dave, and proceeded to pack up his belongings. As Dacre disappeared abruptly Lucas uttered a savage roar. Inspecting the dice he made a discovery. "Loaded dice!" he uttered in a hoarse shout. "You got that Dacre out of my clutches unfairly! You first for that then after the lawyer!" "Not this time!" shot out Dave firmly. "I'll stand trial, but—hang bang! simultaneously each man fired. They were so close together that they fell almost side by side. Lucas never moved again. Dave felt his life blood ebbing away. "I've paid my bill!" he muttered faintly. "For mother's sake!" and died, smiling.

IT'S BLOOD THAT FEEDS THE BODY

Pepto-Mangan Creates Rich Red Blood, Changes Pale Complexions to Bloom of Health

A serious illness, even a cold that is hard to shake off, can reduce the blood to a weak, watery condition which keeps the normal strength and vigor from coming back.

This poor physical condition brings on a helpless, discouraged mental condition which rich red blood can restore.

Pure blood should be rich in iron which Nature supplies to some extent in food. But often through faulty digestion or improper diet you don't get the needed iron, and our blood, on which your health depends, grows weaker and weaker.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood, increases the red blood cells and supplies the ingredients that bring a quick response in vigor, vitality and fine color.

Physicians recommend Gude's Pepto-Mangan. When you order be sure the word "Gude's" is on the package. Without "Gude's" it is not Pepto-Mangan. Furnished in both liquid and tablet form. For sale by all druggists.—Advertisement.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Donner

BUSH AND FLY.

"You're a queer thing, bush," said the fly to the snowberry bush.

"Why?" asked the snowberry bush. "I'm sure I don't mean to be queer. I'm sorry you think I am. I mean to be nice."

"That is what I think is queer," said the fly. The fly moved his legs about and rubbed his small red head. His black body with its six black legs looked very unattractive. He didn't look as though he cared about bathing or anything clearly in the very least; and, indeed, he did not.

"What in the world do you mean?" "Just what I said," the fly answered. "You mean," said the snowberry bush, "that you think it is nice to be mean and not to be nice?" "Exactly what I think," said the fly. "Why," said the snowberry bush, "I can't believe you are thinking of what you are saying. I simply cannot believe that you are. You surely don't mean it, but are joking with me?" "I'm not joking in the least," said the fly. "I love to be mean. I simply adore it. All my family always have. If we can carry around an illness we're delighted to do it. The fewer flies there are, they say, the healthier it is, so you see what we do in those ways!"

"We like sickness. It doesn't bother us. We're willing to carry it. We like to wake folks up in the morning who are tired. When exhausted people sometimes on a holiday find the time for a little nap on a summer afternoon we bother them so they can't sleep. We bother them at bedtime. We're fighting about and getting a nibble at the food which is far from pleasant for the people, but we don't mind that. We just adore doing that."

"The meaner we can be the happier we are. We haven't anything nice about us. We never do any good deeds and we never care for anything that has kindness in it. We're surprised at the great number of creatures and things there are who are nice. Now take even the catchily plants or flowers.

"You know those lavender and white and purple and pink flowers with the sticky stems? They even try to help catch us at the same time they are being beautiful. They want to make folks happy looking at them and adding to a garden and they want to help folks along still more by seeing if perhaps one or two of us may be caught that way."

"That is the way they are. And you seem to be kindly and all of that, too."

"Ah," said the snowberry bush, "in the spring we have lovely little blossoms and the rest of the time our leaves try to do a great deal of good work."

"Then in the autumn and even into the winter we have little round white berries which give us the name of snowberry bush. They're not so very tiny and they add a great deal of cheerfulness when there are no other flowers. We're glad to do such things as add cheer."

"Strange," buzzed the fly. "And in the summer when there is a storm and when the sun comes out later the people love to look at us. The rain-drops stay on our leaves for quite a while. The leaves are shaped for that. And with the sun glistening down they all look like diamonds and people just love to see us then."

"Then, too, the birds come and sip up the drops of water and have a beautiful time and they shake rain off on their little feathered bodies, and they have nice cooling, refreshing baths and enjoy us so much."

"Why don't you try, fly, and see what it is like to be nice? You get far more fun out of life if you are. You see such nice things about creatures and you have such a good time being friendly."

"I'd rather not," said the fly. "That's too bad," said the snowberry bush. "I'm glad there are few creatures like you."

Claimed the Pures.
Guests having been there, the children were up later than usual and ungaily excited. Aunt couldn't make them go to sleep; she had heard their prayers, told them stories, and they were wider awake than ever. "The first one of you to go to sleep shall have an orange," she finally said. Dead silence followed. Presently Tottie called: "Aunt, give me my orange; is the first one asleep. He best woke up again."

Stockings Over Shoes.
Our neighbor's daughter was to be married. Mother went over at the last moment to see her and to arrange her veil. Just as she was about to step through the folding doors into the room where the ceremony was to be performed mother noticed her feet. She had drawn on a pair of white stockings over her slippers and then were still on! She was quickly drawn back and there was a scramble to pull them off and start in again.—Exchange.

Keeping In Step With the Times Prices Lower in Every Department

America has awakened to the great duty of readjustment. We are coming back to normal. Costs are being reduced. This store, recognizing this great need of the day, cheerfully pledges itself to lend every effort in both buying and selling to give its patrons the opportunity of buying merchandise at lower levels.

This store is a safe place to buy. We have been in business as a firm for 28 years and because of the experience gained we were ready to buy our new stock at lower prices and willing to reduce our stock on hand to meet the new figures.

The articles listed below are a few of the many money saving bargains that we are featuring at this time:

NOT WORKING BUT TIRED OUT

When one feels tired, tired without working, or suffers from backache, headache, rheumatic pains, sore muscles or stiff joints it is not always easy to locate the source of trouble, but very frequently it can be traced to overworked, weakened or diseased kidneys. Mrs. L. Gibson, 24th and Edison Street, La Junta, Colo., writes:
"My kidneys were giving me a great deal of trouble for some time. I took Foley-Kidney Pills and they helped me right away."

Always Unpopular Number.

Whether unlucky or not, number 13 is thoroughly unpopular. If 13 sit down to a meal, the first to rise will be within a year, says superstition.
The person born on the thirteenth of the month will be unlucky throughout life; no one should embark on a journey or start an enterprise on the thirteenth of the month; while the thirteenth house in a row is nearly always empty, or numbered 11A or 15.

He Had to Laugh.

A private with the A. E. F. felt thirsty, and not having a franc in his pocket decided the only way he could get some wine was to faint. So he pretended to faint in front of the first lun. Two French girls ran out, picked him up and started toward the lun.
Unfortunately one of the girls suddenly fainted and he laughed.
The indignant girls left him sitting on the ground.

Chaplain's Forgetfulness.

The chaplain of a jail was once invited to preach to a large and fashionable congregation in a neighboring church. Somehow he managed to bring with him a sermon that he had prepared to the prisoners in the jail chapel, and astonished the fashionable folk by telling them: "But for the unrepented mercy of the crown martyr of you would long ago have exploded your crimes on the scaffold."

Delayed for Refreshments.

The hour was set for the wedding, but the bride did not appear. After an hour's wait the clergyman said he could wait no longer. "Oh, please just a little longer," the mother said.
Another hour of waiting and then a jubilant voice called out: "Oh, Susy, the beer has come, the beer has come!"
and the bridal party immediately appeared before the weary minister.

The Useful Chicken.

As the old turkey said: "A chicken am de mos' usefulest animal dere ho. Yo can eat him befoah he am bohn an' afiah he am dead."

Sham Worse Than Real.

There are real evils and people who merely say disagreeable things because they think them funny.—Bus-ton Transcript."MY NERVOUSNESS IS GONE AND I NOW SLEEP SOUNDLY."Said Hotel Man, And He Gives Credit to Nerv-Worth."For a long time I had been troubled with nervousness," said D. F.
Sheridan, Park Hotel Butler, Pa., in a letter written some time ago, and he continues, "I would not sleep well but would toss about, and when I'd get up in the morning I'd feel as tired when I went to bed. I had read of the benefits of Nerv-Worth in nervous troubles and heard so many others speaking of the good it had done that I decided to try it. I am glad to say to you and all my friends that all my nervousness has entirely disappeared and I now sleep soundly and wake in the morn-ing feeling rested and refreshed and full of strength and vigor. I am on my first bottle at this writing, and the above benefits are from taking less than a bottle. Nerv-Worth certainly brings results, and I recommend it." Composed of ingredients and containing harmless extracts from roots and plants, Nerv-Worth is the ideal nerve tonic and builder.
It contains no bromides, and thus does not act in a mechanical way to give temporary results. Nerv-Worth results you will find to be lasting.
Give it a trial. Nerv-Worth is sold in this city by Stewart's Drug store and all leading druggists everywhere, price $1.25.

Charm.

Many people regard "charm" as a gift of the gods, given to some and denied to others, like all other natural gifts. But "charm" is a "gift" that all may possess in a greater or less degree if they are prepared to cultivate it. This quality is the outcome of true sympathy and kindness of heart.

Knowledge Not Enough.

Those who, in the confidence of superior capacities or attainments, neglect the common maxims of life, should be reminded that nothing will supply the want of prudence; but that negligence and irregularity, long continued, will make knowledge useless, will render it, and genius contemptible.—Johnson.

When the "Honey" film was shown, the photographer took a picture of the crowd looking on. In the background, a statue of a man in a suit and tie, with a sword at his side, stood prominently. The statue was made of a dark material, possibly bronze or stone, and was set on a pedestal. The crowd was diverse, with people of various ages and ethnicities. Some were looking at the film, while others were looking at the statue. The overall atmosphere was one of interest and curiosity.
